

Remember That Night

Rollover the thumbnails to see the pictures

Click to open and save separately.

We went for a walk one evening in December 2010, and the light was quite remarkable. I happened to have my little 'CoolPix' with me, and a couple of half charged batteries ... it's a good job because it was so cold that they only lasted for a few shots. I WILL get myself a Leica M9 just in case we get another evening like this one (when I can afford it that is) !